Third Edition

December 2017

26th Issue

Every home has a history, even if it is brand new. And from that history come traditions and then memories that stay with the owner throughout their tenure in that home. Memories are what make a house a home, what changes a structure into something of value to the heart. It is what makes it cozy and warm, inviting and friendly. And that is the season we are in right now. It is a time of giving and receiving but more importantly, it is a time to make new memories and remember the old ones. Happy Home-idays to you and cheers for the season.
