THE BEST IN THE BUSINESS!

We all know that this has been a very crazy year in so many ways. But summer is waning, school has restarted and Labor Day is here. While summer is traditionally a busy time for real estate sales, don't overlook the great potential of fall. After Labor Day, attitudes change. Families that need to be settled prior to the start of the school year have found a home already and those that might be looking now often don't have a set deadline. And, there might be more room for price negotiation. These and other factors affect the current market. The best way to find out what is happening locally is to contact the best in the business, Realtor Janice Busovne. At this time of year, Janice's guidance and research takes the "Labor" out of the equation.

HAVE A GREAT LABOR DAY WEEKEND AMERICA!
