Boo!

October is a month where the emphasis is usually on frightening pictures, spooky ghosts, gap-toothed pumpkins and fun-sized candy. However, one thing is for sure, the real estate market doesn't have to be grim or scary at any time, even now during COVID. And rest assured, the only haunted houses that could cause anxiety are the ones decorated by humans during Halloween, none of which are on the MLS. By simply working closely with the right Realtor, like Janice Busovne, you drastically reduce any shocking mishaps associated with home buying and selling and can be assured that you are working with a true professional.

It's Fall Ya'll!
